DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

1. Claims 1, 8-9, 12-13, and 20-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Veprek et al (US Patent No. 6,496,801) in view of August et al (US 2003/0028378).

2. Regarding claims 1, 8-9, 12-13, and 20-22, Veprek teaches a speech synthesis system for generating speech from a fixed portion and a variable portion (col. 2, line 26 continuing to col. 3, line 41). Veprek does not teach the portions are content based which are selected based on rules.

August teaches a text to speech module with a rules module for analyzing context of selected words or sentences, and teaches the application of the rules and context module facilitates more accurate pronunciation of each word (paragraph 0052).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill at the time of the invention to modify the system of Veprek to implement context and rules modules, as taught by August, for the purpose of providing more accurate pronunciation of the synthesized words, as suggested by August (paragraph 0052).

Art Unit: 2654

3. Claims 2-7 and 14-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Veprek in view of August as applied to claims 1 and 13 above, and further in view of Buchner et al (6,535,854).

Regarding claims 2-7 and 14-19, Veprek and August do not teach storing usage statistics of the text-to-speech system.

Buchner teaches providing text to speech messages in which most frequent messages are tracked (col. 5, lines 38-42).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill at the time of the invention to modify the system of Veprek to implement tracking frequently used messages, as taught by Buchner, because such a modification would alleviate the need of reprocessing frequently used data and would allow obsolete data to be efficiently removed or updated.

4. Claims 10 and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Veprek in view of August as applied to claim 1, and further in view of Schultz (US 2002/0010584).

Veprek and August do not teach text to speech services are provided by a host system.

Schultz teaches an interactive voice communication method and system for information and entertainment in which users access website information to retrieve celebrity information responses to a query, which implements synthesis module for generating the celebrity voice (paragraph 0162, 0049-0054).

Art Unit: 2654

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill at the time of the invention to modify the system of Veprek a host system, as suggested by Schultz, for the purpose of providing access and synthetic speech output of information located and available through the World Wide Web.
